

BIOC 511 - A lecture and discussion course on the molecular basis of cellular regulation with special emphasis on higher eukaryotes. Focused on recent literature, a number of important and contemporary topics in cellular signaling will be discussed. These include cellular regulation through chromatin modifications and epigenetics, transcriptional regulatory networks, cell adhesion based signal transduction, and proteases in health and disease.